INQUIRY INTO THE CAR SHORTAGE-INTER STATE

Commerce Commission to Investigate Possible Coal Famine.

Louisville, Nov. 4.—The Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington has issued orders for a general investigation and formal hearing into conditions which are responsible for the shortage of railroad cars which is causing a coal famine in many parts of the country, and elsewhere preventing shippers from getting their commodities to markets without more than reasonable delay.

The action decided upon was urged by Commissioner C. C. McCord, who yesterday began an informal hearing at the custom house here, with a view to deciding upon some means of alleviating conditions.

The orders, which came in reply to Commissioner McCord's telegrams sent yesterday after he had come to realize the vast scope of the problem, were received at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon—just previous to adjournment for the noon recess—and immediately put the matter into a new light.

The communication, which is from B. E. Meyers, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, follows: "Commissioner C. C. McCord: General investigation ordered into supply, exchange, interchange and return of freight cars, together with all regulations and practices relating thereto. The initial hearing will be held before you at Louisville, Wednesday, November 8."

Upon announcing receipt of the communication, Commissioner McCord decided that all testimony which had been introduced during the proceedings would be entered at the formal hearing as related, unless counsel for the carriers which have testified found objection to such a step. In the event any of the roads can prove why the testimony should not go into the formal proceedings, although the statements were sworn to, it will be necessary to repeat the proceedings which began yesterday.

"The inquiry," said Commissioner McCord, "will proceed through this afternoon, but will be suspended Monday and Tuesday." Suggestion to that effect was made by Attorney Examiner Dowell, who is assisting Commissioner McCord, and Judge Fletcher, general attorney for the Illinois Central, the latter saying adjournment until Wednesday was the proper course in order to allow the carriers to make further preparations.

J. Van Norman, representing various lumber and coal interests, favored continuance of all hearing through Monday, because he said the situation was one which demanded immediate attention, and every passing minute only added to the desperate straits of the shipping interests, as well as those affected by the coal famine.

Commissioner McCord called at

Big Profit On Hogs

Mr. M. C. Riley, of Liberty, Ky., Clears $27.30 on 14 Hogs in 18 Days By Feeding Liquid Stock Feed.

Mr. M. C. Riley, of Liberty, Ky., under date of October 24, writes to us as follows:

"I have fed 14 hogs 24 barrels of my heavy slop together with 10 bushels of corn for a period of 18 days in which time they gained 407 pounds. These hogs were disposed of for 19 cents per pound.

"Yours very truly," "M. C. RILEY."

Mr. Riley paid only $13.40 for the 24 barrels of slop. The 10 bushels of corn at 74 cents per bushel amounting to $7.40 or a total cost of feeding, $20.80. The hogs gained 407 pounds at 10 cents per pound, or a gain of $40.70, making a gain of more than a dollar a day.

Just like another big feeder said: "It beats feeding corn all 'holer.'" Write today for prices. Reduced rates on all railroads.

Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Royal, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

attention to the fact that preparation by the railroads is necessary, because at the formal hearing it will be necessary for the roads to show where the cars are being held, and whether they are filled or empty.

OBITUARY.

Lucy Sanderfur Bennett was born January 15, 1846, in Henderson county, Ky. She was the daughter of Thomas and Amelia Sanderfur. She professed faith in Christ in her early womanhood and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian church, but after her marriage to Geo. W. Bennett, January 14, 1864, joined the M. E. Church, South, at Noecreek and lived a consistent member until death. She was the mother of four children: Thomas W., Fleiden C., Mary L. and Leslie C., all of whom survive.

She bore her afflictions with christian fortitude and often expressed her willingness to die when the Lord called her. She died September 25, 1916, in the full triumph of faith. Aged 70 years, 8 months and 10 days.

She had 11 grandchildren, also 11 great-grandchildren. Two of each died in infancy.

The large crowd of people attending her funeral and burial at Mt. Hermon was an expression of the fact that she had a large circle of friends. She worked faithfully for her family, her neighbors and the church. A good woman has gone to her reward. "She hath done what she could." R. D. BENNETT.

OBITUARY.

In Memory of B. F. Wallace.

About 5 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 14, 1916, the "Grim Reaper" swung his scythe in the town of Fordville and gathered unto the Lord's harvest one of the most widely known citizens of Ohio county, in the person of Benjamin Franklin Wallace, who was born in Davies county, Ky., February 24, 1850, and was therefore 66 years, 8 months and 20 days of age. He married Sarah E. Roach September 16, 1869, and to this union were born six girls and four boys, two of each having preceded their father to the grave. The surviving children are Mrs. J. R. White, of Owensboro; W. C. Wallace, of Caneyville; Ed. F. Wallace, of Leitchfield; Mrs. J. B. Westernfield and Miss Lula Wallace, of Fordville, and Mrs. A. B. Fortner, of Louisville. He also leaves two sister, Mrs. I. N. Lanham, of near Fordville, and Mrs. Marion Craig, of Eldorado, Ill., and one brother, J. Thomas Wallace, of near Hartford.

His companion having preceded him to the "other shore" on October 24, 1892, he chose as his second wife, Mrs. Matilda A. Westernfield, who died May 28, 1909.

Quite early in life he joined the Baptist church, but later united with the Christian Church of which he remained a steadfast member until his death.

An immense concourse of people thronged the Fordville Christian Church, of which he was a charter member, on the afternoon of October 15th, where a splendid and impressive sermon was preached by Eld. H. E. Stevens, of Owensboro, after which the remains were interred beside those of his first wife in the Wallace cemetery, some three miles south-west of Fordville.

While disclaiming any attempt at the use of fancy or high sounding words, as of him of whom we write had no time at all for false flattery, yet we feel it fitting and proper to say that the deceased was a man possessed of an unusual amount of courage to act as he thought proper, regardless of whether he lost or gained, or was blamed or applauded by his fellows. He was absolutely independent, and unafraid, in religion, in politics, in business, in everything, and once his "chart and compass" was set that way he would go regardless of how the wind might blow. It was enough for him to feel that he was right and justified in his course and then he was inflexible and unmovable. He was in business in, and near Fordville, over a third of a century, and no one ever knew him to "bend the pregnant hinges of the knees that thrift might follow fawning." He fervently and devotedly loved his church, and church people, yet it was well nigh impossible for him to sit supinely in his pew and remain passive when he thought an innovation was made on uncertain or unscriptural ground. He was a large man, weighing some 300 pounds, of which an extremely large per cent, was backbone. He was no trimmer, or compromiser, but always blunt and outspoken. He was human, and had a human's faults, but a forceful figure has been consigned to the tomb, and a forceful spirit we trust has gone to the God who gave it in "That Home not made with hands eternal in the Heavens."

To the children, sisters and brother as well as other bereaved relatives, we would point to the "Man of Galilee," who said, "Come in you blessed of my Father, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter into the joys of thy Lord."
